2 Principles

- 2.1 Induction plays a significant role in creating the foundation for a constructive working relationship between a staff member and the Institute.
- 2.2 Induction provides newly appointed staff with knowledge of the Institute, its values, core processes, alongside the practical information necessary for doing their job.

3 Associated procedures for Ara Corporate Policy on: Induction

Contents:	3.1	General
	3.2	The Role of HR Division
	3.3	Role of the Line Manager
	3.4	Role of the Employee

3.1 General

- a Induction will include the following:
 - i An understanding of Ara kaupapa and values, its commitment to the Treaty of Waitangi and through the formal powhiri at Orientation an introduction to Maori protocol.
 - ii Relevant Institute-wide policies and procedures
 - iii Mandatory training relating to health and safety and other essential or legal areas.

NOTE: Health and safety induction to the work area and tasks must be provided as soon as practicable but no later than within the first week.
 - iv Job information and training relating to the position.
 - v Introduction to relevant staff.

3.2 The Role of Human Resources Division

- a Institute-wide induction is provided by the Human Resources Division.
- b Human Resources Division can provide templates for induction planning and is available to assist managers in planning an appropriate induction.
- c Ara orientation is co-ordinated by Human Resources Division. All tenured staff are required to attend orientation. The Manager's responsibility regarding orientation is to enable a new employee to attend.

3.3 Role of the Line Manager

The Line Manager will:

- a Devise a written induction plan, with an appropriate time frame, before a new employee starts work. It will be discussed with the employee on their first day and implementation will begin.
- b Complete the ER24 (Staff Induction Checklist) with the staff member and return the form to HR.

All policies on the Ara InfoWeb are the current version. Please check date of this hard copy before proceeding.

- c Ensure that the employee has the time and opportunity to effectively access Ara information, tools, systems and processes to appropriate level.
- d Ensure that any concerns of the employee regarding their induction are attended to and that there is follow-up on progress with adaptations to meet changing circumstances and needs.
- e At the completion of the plan all participants will evaluate the effectiveness of the induction.
- f Enable all new permanent employees to attend Orientation.
- g Discuss the need for induction into a changed role with a staff member when he/she has a significant change in employment conditions (e.g. from part time to proportional or full time, or a promotion).
- h Ensure contractors complete the online Health and Safety induction as a minimum.

3.4 Role of the Employee

The Employee will:

- a Take part in all aspects of the Induction Plan in the stated timeframe.
- b Give feedback on progress.
- c Take any concerns about the induction content or process to their Line Manager in the first instance. If the concerns are not addressed the employee can refer them to the appropriate Human Resources Advisor.
